Human Rights and HIV/AIDS:
Now More than Ever

A Delegates’ Guide to Law and Human Rights at AIDS 2006

Law and Health Initiative
Now more than ever, greater attention to human rights and legal issues in the context of HIV/AIDS is needed. Universal access to prevention, treatment, care, and support will never be achieved unless we take concrete steps to put human rights at the center of the fight against HIV/AIDS.

This guide has been prepared by the Law and Health Initiative of the Open Society Institute’s Public Health Program to highlight the many legal and human rights-themed sessions, presentations, and other events at the XVI International AIDS Conference (August 13-18, 2006) and its satellite events in Toronto, Canada.

The guide first provides a list of organizations working on legal and human rights issues that have booths at the conference. It then presents summary information on the many sessions, satellite meetings, skills-building workshops, and events in the Global Village and Youth programs addressing legal and human rights issues.

This guide covers the following issues that are critical to a human rights approach to HIV/AIDS:

The rights of women and girls, including their right to equality under the law; protection from violence; equal access to property and inheritance; and access to education, information, and a full range of HIV/AIDS and reproductive health services;

The rights of people who use drugs, including freedom from arbitrary arrest, torture, incarceration for low-level offenses, and other abuses in the criminal justice system; access to harm reduction services such as needle exchange and substitution treatment; and equal access to antiretroviral treatment for HIV;

The rights of prisoners, including humane conditions of confinement; access to HIV prevention, treatment, and care services; freedom from arbitrarily prolonged incarceration; access to medical release; and equal treatment for prisoners living with HIV;

The rights of sex workers, men who have sex with men, and other marginalized groups, including freedom from arbitrary arrest and detention for violating laws against prostitution and sodomy; protection from rape and other forms of violence; and equality in access to health care, employment, and other services;

The rights of children affected by AIDS, including protection from abandonment, sexual violence, property grabbing, and other abuses; equal access to primary, secondary, and tertiary education; and access to a full range of HIV services, including complete HIV-prevention information and antiretroviral treatment for HIV;

The rights of youth, including complete and science-based HIV-prevention information; comprehensive adolescent sexual and reproductive rights services; and meaningful involvement in the formulation of HIV policies and programs;

The rights of AIDS activists, including freedom of expression, association, and information; and the right to participate in the formulation of HIV policies and programs;

The right to universal access to HIV prevention, treatment, and care, including lifting all barriers to access to prevention, treatment, and care programs such as censorship of HIV-prevention information, legal restrictions on harm reduction services for people who use drugs, excessive patent protection on HIV drugs, and restrictions on opioid pain medication for palliative care.
Exhibits

Open Society Institute
Booth 425 (area F)
The Law and Health Initiative has a space in the booth of the OSI Public Health Program. It features the work of HIV/AIDS and human rights organizations from around the world and serves as a hub for law and human rights information and activities at the conference. Every day during the conference, from 12:45 to 13:45, human rights activists will be available to answer your questions.

Canadian HIV/AIDS Legal Network
Booth 454 (area F)
The network is one of the world’s best known and most active organizations working on legal and human rights issues related to HIV/AIDS. Many of its publications are available at the booth, including a new CD-ROM containing an excellent collection of essential documents on human rights and HIV/AIDS.

Human Rights Watch
Booth 423 (area E)
Building naturally on Human Rights Watch’s large body of research on discrimination, women’s and children’s rights, rights of prisoners, and persecution of marginalized groups, Human Rights Watch’s HIV/AIDS and Human Rights Program has documented rights violations against people living with or affected by HIV/AIDS in countries around the world. Many of its reports are available at the booth, as well as information about a number of skills-building workshops co-organized by the Women’s Rights Division and the HIV/AIDS Program.

International Council of AIDS Service Organizations
Booth 405 (area D)
ICASO has published a number of papers and reports on issues related to HIV/AIDS and human rights, most recently a report entitled “Community Monitoring and Evaluation: Implementation of the UNGASS Declaration of Commitment on HIV/AIDS” that highlights that governments are failing to address the human rights dimensions of the epidemic.

UNAIDS
Booth 402 (area D)
Among the many reports available at the UNAIDS booth are several on human rights issues, including new papers entitled “Courting Rights: Case Studies in Litigating the Human Rights of People Living with HIV” and “HIV-Related Stigma, Discrimination, and Human Rights Violations: Case Studies of Successful Programs,” as well as the 10th anniversary edition of the International Guidelines on HIV/AIDS and Human Rights.
Editors’ notes:

The information described in this guide is current as of July 26, 2006. We apologize for any errors or omissions.

Sessions shaded in green are editors’ picks. These sessions directly address the relationship between law, human rights, and HIV/AIDS.

Pre-Conference Events

9:00-15:00: Pre-Conference Workshop

Making the Connection: Vulnerable Populations, HIV/AIDS, and Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights

Venue: Marriott Hotel, Forest Hill Ballroom, 90 Bloor Street East, Toronto

Guaranteeing the sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) of vulnerable populations is essential to protecting them from HIV and ensuring they have access to a full range of HIV services. This workshop focuses on intensifying linkages between HIV/AIDS and SRHR at the policy and program levels, with particular focus on the impact of these dynamics on vulnerable communities. It will provide an introduction to the issue from a rights-based perspective and will generate ideas for further action that participants can build on during the conference.

Those interested in attending should send a message to heather@acpd.ca as soon as possible as space is limited.

Sunday, August 13th

Pre-Conference Events

10:15-12:15: Youth Program

From Rhetoric to Action: Defining a Stronger Role for Youth in National HIV/AIDS Policies

Venue: Session Room 3, Level 800

This unprecedented meeting between young leaders and prominent world leaders addresses the impact of HIV/AIDS on young people and their communities around the world. The dialogue is expected to reveal how young people can play a greater role in influencing national policies and programs by being more actively engaged in decision-making, implementation, and accountability.

10:30-12:30

Involving People with HIV/AIDS in the Decisions that Affect Our Lives: Accomplishments, Challenges, and Lessons Learned

Venue: Global Village – Session Hall 1

Organizers: Canadian AIDS Society; AIDS 2006 Key Challenge Program and Community Program Committees

Greater involvement of people living with HIV/AIDS is a specific expression of the right to participation and the right to “take part in cultural life” recognized in the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights. Despite this, and despite commitment in principle to greater involvement, in practice involvement of people living with HIV or AIDS remains limited in many countries. This session examines challenges and obstacles to greater involvement and lessons learned.
Is US AIDS Policy Undermining the HIV Response?

Venue: Session Room 11

Organizers: International Council of AIDS Service Organizations (Canada); AIDS Policy Watch (UK); The Center for Health and Gender Equity (USA); ATHENA: Advancing Gender Equity and Human Rights in the Global Response to HIV/AIDS (USA)

This session will focus on the impact of U.S. AIDS policy on HIV prevention, care, treatment, and support efforts worldwide.

Where's the Money for Women’s Rights and HIV/AIDS?

Venue: Global Village – Main Stage

Organizer: Association for Women’s Rights in Development (Canada)

Despite rhetorical commitment to advancing women's rights in the context of HIV/AIDS, women's groups remain chronically under-funded in most AIDS-affected countries. This session, in talk show format, will look at disparities in resources directed toward women's organizations and how to influence donors to ensure that adequate funding reaches these groups.

Bridging the Gap between Law and Practice: Grassroots Women, Inheritance Rights, and AIDS

Venue: Skills Building Room 3

Organizer: Huairou Commission (International)

Inheritance is a fundamental issue with regard to how wealth is transferred within a society, and it relates in particular to the protection of a woman's housing. The denial of women's inheritance rights hinders their full realization of other basic fundamental human rights, such as the right to health and education, and increases women's vulnerability to HIV infection, physical violence, destitution, and homelessness. This satellite meeting will explore how women's inheritance rights can be protected in practice.

Conference Day 1

7:00-8:30: Morning Satellite Meetings

Women’s Rights and HIV/AIDS

Venue: Skills Building Room 5

Organizers: United Nations Development Fund for Women; Action Aid International

The protection of the rights of women and girls is key to turning around the African continent's AIDS crisis. Relative to the scale of the problem, however, such protection is virtually ignored as a policy tool and certainly not viewed as a central element in national HIV/AIDS programs. This satellite meeting addresses some of the challenges of protecting women and girls from AIDS-related human rights abuses.

Treatment for Injecting Drug Users: Antiretrovirals and Beyond

Venue: Skills Building Room 6

Organizer: International Harm Reduction Development Program of the Open Society Institute's Public Health Program (USA)

In many countries, people who use illegal drugs represent the smallest fraction of individuals receiving antiretroviral treatment despite accounting for a majority of people living with HIV. This satellite meeting will discuss how treatment access for people who inject drugs can be scaled up.
8:45-10:15: Plenaries and Jonathan Mann Memorial Lecture

Session type: Controversy and Common Ground
Venue: Session Room 3, Level 800
Interpretation: FR ES

Chairs:
Beatrice Were, Uganda; Babara Hall, Canada [TBC]

It is often argued that human rights approaches to HIV/AIDS conflict with or undermine public health interventions. Yet human rights activists have made extraordinary contributions to the global AIDS struggle, and their work is essential to achieving the goals of universal access to prevention, treatment, and care. This panel will pay tribute to the work of HIV/AIDS and human rights activists from around the globe, recognizing the hostile and often dangerous environments in which they work.

MOAD01: Disclose or Disappear: The Impact of Disclosure

Session type: Abstract Session
Venue: Session Room 10, Level 100

Chairs:
Violeta Ross, Bolivia; Jacqueline Gahagan, Canada

A recent WHO-supported review of 17 studies from Africa and Southeast Asia concludes that 4 percent to 28 percent of women reported negative outcomes following the disclosure of their HIV status. Particularly in the context of calls for provider-initiated routine HIV testing, this raises serious questions about whether HIV testing without appropriate safeguards will lead to involuntary disclosure of HIV status and human rights abuses against women with HIV.

10:45-12:15: Global Village

A Model for Interactive Community Dialogues to Address Gender Discrimination, Violence against Women, and Economic Inequity

Venue:  Global Village – Main Stage
Organizer: ATHENA (USA)

This participatory session will share a model of “community dialogue sessions” on the issues of gender equity and human rights in several regions. This innovative technique fosters open communication and reveals new ways of working together in the global response to AIDS.

10:45-12:15: Skills Building Workshop

MOSB02: Comprehensive Training for Health Workers on the Sexual and Reproductive Health Rights of HIV positive Women

Venue:  Skills Building Room 2
Facilitator: Promise Mthembu

12:45-13:45: Special Session

MOSS01: Women at the Frontline in the AIDS Response

Venue:  Session Room 1, Level 800
Interpretation: FR ES RU
Moderator: Judy Woodruff, United States

There is ample evidence that the high and increasing vulnerability of women to HIV/AIDS is due to gender-based economic inequalities, sexual violence, and lack of access to HIV prevention, education, training, and care for women. Despite the recognition of the need for a gendered response to HIV/AIDS by governments and donors, the implementation of appropriate policies and interventions is inadequate or non-existent. This special session will showcase examples of women who have overcome their own challenges with HIV to assume a vital role in the HIV response as infected or affected persons.

Panel discussion:

Ellen Johnson-Sirleaf, President of Liberia [TBC]
Melinda Gates, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation
Musa Njoko, South African AIDS activist

MOSY05: GIPA in Action/GIPA Inaction: What Have We Achieved Regarding the Greater Involvement of People Living with HIV/AIDS?

Session type: Symposium
Venue:  Session Room 2, Level 800
Interpretation: FR ES
Moderator: Darien Taylor, Canada

This session examines accomplishments and challenges in achieving greater involvement of people with AIDS (GIPA) in the design, development, and implementation of HIV/AIDS policies and programs. It includes speakers from Ukraine, Brazil, Vietnam, and India.
MOCC03: HIV Testing in the Era of Treatment Scale Up

Session type: Controversy and Common Ground
Venue: Session Room 3, Level 800
Interpretation: FR ES
Moderator: Joanne Csete, Canada

Given current efforts around the globe to scale up HIV testing, it is important to debate the benefits and approaches to scaling up testing and to suggest areas that ought to be considered in any future scale-up efforts. The crucial need to scale up HIV testing is undisputed; divergence exists, however, with respect to the ultimate purpose of HIV testing, priorities in the ways that HIV testing ought to be practiced within different settings, the role that attention to human rights can usefully play in these efforts, and ultimately the extent to which voluntary counseling and testing remains the most effective approach to HIV testing.

MOCC04: Sexuality, Social Policy, and AIDS: Case Studies on Sexual Rights and HIV/AIDS

Session type: Controversy and Common Ground
Venue: Session Room 7, Level 700
Moderator: Sonia Correa, Brazil

The presentations in this session examine the intersections between HIV/AIDS policies and human rights, reproductive rights, sexual rights, and gender justice movements at both national and trans-national levels. Topics addressed include: the influence of secularist and religious definitions of sexuality and gender on HIV/AIDS policies; debates over condom use, trafficking, and commercial sex work; and implications of these debates for initiatives aimed to reduce the impact of the HIV epidemic globally.

MOSY06: Treatment for Injecting Drug Users: Making Calls for Universal Access Real

Session type: Symposium
Venue: Session Room 8, Level 100
Interpretation: FR ES RU
Moderator: Raminta Stuikyte, Lithuania

In many countries, people who use illegal drugs represent the smallest fraction of individuals receiving anti-retroviral treatment despite accounting for a majority of people living with HIV. This kind of systemic discrimination, which could spell doom for any effort to achieve “universal access,” can only be addressed by guaranteeing people who use drugs a full range of human rights and finding concrete remedies for their deep social marginalization. This session will discuss the treatment needs, existing good practice interventions, and policy questions raised by the increasing number of people infected through injecting drug use.

MOAE02: Moving the Agenda Forward: Women's Rights and HIV

Session type: Abstract Session
Venue: Session Room 11, Level 100
Chairs: Ana Luisa Liguori, Mexico; Georgina Gutierez, Mexico

In this session, presenters from four continents present research on various aspects of women's rights and HIV, and make concrete suggestions about what is needed to promote and protect women's rights and reduce their vulnerability to HIV/AIDS.

Prevention Policies Hindering the HIV Response

Venue: Global Village – Session Hall 1
Organizers: International Council of AIDS Service Organizations (Canada); Center for Health and Gender Equity (USA); AIDS Policy Watch (UK); Open Society Institute (USA)

This session will be a focused discussion on the impact of ideological constraints and donor and government restrictions on HIV prevention and the impact that these policies have on the HIV response. The session will focus on policies related to abstinence-only prevention and harm reduction programs. Panelists will include experts in the field with direct experience of the impact of these policies.

Sex Workers Are Part of the Solution: Sex Worker Leaders around the Globe

Venue: Global Village – Session Hall 2
Organizers: Stella (Canada); Maggie's (Canada); International Network of Sex Work Projects

Sex worker leaders from five continents will talk about partnerships with governments and policy makers as well as local and global organizing, highlighting mobility and migration issues, human rights, research, and empowerment.

16:15-17:45: Concurrent Sessions

MOAX03: High Time to Deliver on Stigma and Discrimination

Session type: Abstract Session
Despite years of talk about the importance of dealing with stigma and discrimination, projects and programs to fight them often are ineffective, and there remains little investment in most countries in real protection from HIV-related discrimination and abuse. This session will feature some of the best research, advocacy, and programs addressing HIV-related stigma in the world today.

MOSY07: Sex Workers, HIV, and Human Rights: What Can Be Done?

Session type: Symposium

Venue: Session Room 2, Level 800

Interpretation: FR ES

Moderator: Melisa Hope Ditmore, United States

This symposium focuses on efforts to address sex workers’ rights in Africa, Asia, Eastern Europe, and Latin America. It shares how different laws and policies impact sex workers’ human rights and vulnerability to HIV. Examples of self-organizing and empowerment of sex workers, micro-funding programs, advocacy by LGBT rights groups, and legal approaches that work in different settings and on local, national, and regional scales will be presented.

MOBS01: Harm Reduction Works—From Evidence to Action

Session type: Bridging Session

Venue: Session Room 8, Level 100

Interpretation: FR ES RU

Moderator: Daniel Wolfe, United States

There is abundant evidence that harm reduction measures such as needle exchange programs are effective in reducing the spread of HIV among people who inject drugs. Nevertheless, these measures remain controversial in many countries, and failure to make them widely available violates human rights and contributes to rapid spread of HIV among people who inject drugs in many countries. This session will present evidence of the effectiveness of harm reduction programs from around the world, identify lessons learned, and articulate ways for harm reduction programs to be adapted and implemented in different contexts.

MOBS02: Leadership in Girls' Education: An Essential Component in HIV Prevention

Session type: Bridging Session
Venue: Session Room 11, Level 100
Chairs: Jeanette Kagame, Rwanda [TBC]; Josée Verner, Canada [TBC]

Education can not only help to reduce HIV vulnerability, but can also empower young people to fight against gender inequality and address the growing feminization of the AIDS epidemic. This session will present new evidence aimed at mobilizing leadership on girls’ education and bridging the efforts of leaders in the education, gender, and HIV/AIDS communities.

16:15-17:45: Global Village
HIV/AIDS Inheritance and Property Rights

Venue: Global Village – Community Dialogue Space
Organizer: Groots International
This workshop will bring together grassroots women and leaders from Africa and their partners in the field of human rights and research who are engaged in processes to document and strengthen grassroots practices in securing land and housing tenure.

18:00-20:00: Evening Satellite Meetings

HIV/AIDS, Human Rights, and Universal Access: Overcoming Obstacles

Venue: Session Room 12

Organizer: United Nations Development Program

Promoting and protecting human rights and achieving universal access to prevention, treatment, and care are central to reversing the spread of HIV/AIDS. More than two decades into the global pandemic, we have yet to systematically overcome obstacles to attain these goals. This satellite session will bring together leading human rights advocates and practitioners from across the world.

Venue: Global Village – Main Stage

Organizer: International Women’s Health Coalition (USA)

Women and girls are disproportionately affected by the HIV/AIDS pandemic. This session will involve a hearing that exposes the violations of women’s human rights that have led to this inequity. The hearing will involve strong and compelling HIV-positive women activists from different regions and circumstances, each paired with a recognized policy analyst or activist to increase visibility, education, and awareness of the issues that put all women at risk.

Session type: Controversy and Common Ground
Venue: Session Room 2, Level 800
Interpretation: FR ES
Moderators: Ad Melkert, Netherlands [TBC]; Michael Kirby, Australia [TBC]

HIV has been a health condition subject to heavy legislating and heavy litigation. In some places, law has been punitive and has supported a coercive approach to HIV. In others, laws protect against discrimination and empower people in the context of the epidemic, including rights of women, people living with HIV, men who have sex with men, and marginalized groups. This session looks at efforts supporting positive law reform through draft model legislation, civil society advocacy, and litigation.

Government inaction and widespread human rights abuses fuel emerging HIV epidemics in many countries, including China, numerous countries of Eastern Europe, and India. This session will raise global awareness of HIV epidemics in China, Eastern Europe, and India, and share ideas on how to mount an effective government and civil society response. The presentations will be followed by a

TUCC02: Prevention Controversy

Session type: Controversy and Common Ground
Venue:
Session Room 2, Level 800
Interpretation: FR ES

Moderator: Samuel R. Friedman, United States

Despite decades of scientific evaluation of prevention interventions, international controversies exist around work with people who inject drugs, HIV testing strategies, and sexual health. These controversies affect resource allocation and limit local or national programming, and ultimately affect the human rights of millions of people living with or vulnerable to HIV. This session examines three prevention issues: harm reduction, sex work and sexual health, and the expansion of voluntary counseling and testing.

TULP06: Criminalization and HIV: Stories of Communities Fighting Back in a Human Rights Framework

Session type: Learning from Practice

Venue:
Session Room 9, Level 100

Moderator: Joanne Csete, Canada

For some persons most vulnerable to HIV/AIDS, stigma, marginalization, and discrimination are compounded by criminalization under the law. People who use drugs are demonized and their addiction treated as a criminal matter rather than a health concern. Outdated laws in many countries criminalize sex workers, even where sex work itself is technically legal. Repressive laws facilitate the persecution of gay and bisexual men, lesbians, and transgender persons in many countries. In all of these cases, human rights abuse and the lack of legal protections are severe barriers to seeking and utilizing HIV/AIDS services and contribute directly to HIV risk. This session presents the experiences of three community-based organizations that have found ways to assert the human rights of their members and draws lessons from these experiences for community-based action and policy advocacy.

Will it deliver? WTO Rules and Canada’s Law on Compulsory Licensing: The Continuing Challenge of Scaling up Treatment Access
Venue: Session Room 9
Organizers: Médecins Sans Frontières; Canadian HIV/AIDS Legal Network

More than two years ago, Canada passed detailed legislation implementing the 2003 World Trade Organization (WTO) decision on using compulsory licensing to produce less expensive generic medicines for export to eligible developing countries. The WTO decision was supposed to enable a rapid response to a crisis of access to medicines for developing countries. Yet despite efforts, no medicines have left Canada, and no country has yet made use of the 2003 WTO decision, which nonetheless has since been adapted as a permanent amendment to WTO rules. At this session, representatives from the Canadian government, developing countries, the generic pharmaceutical industry, an international private foundation, and NGOs will present their perspectives on their experience with the Canadian law and the 2003 WTO decision, and consider whether such mechanisms will or can truly improve access to antiretrovirals and other medicines urgently needed in developing countries.

Open discussion will follow the presentations.

Session type: Bridging Session
Venue: Session Room 3, Level 800
Interpretation: FR ES
Moderators: Leonard Rubenstein, United States;
Ad Melkert, Netherlands

It is widely acknowledged that weak health systems (scarce human resources for health) are a major barrier to scaling up the response to HIV/AIDS, but the need for additional health workers is being undermined by the epidemic itself. On one hand, scaling up the response is a pre-requisite to human resource development; and on the other, the required health system is not only inadequate, but weakened by the epidemic it must contain. This session presents successful experiences retaining the national health workforce within the country and in the public health system and suggests that a global strategy to protect and strengthen the health workforce in the context of HIV/AIDS may be necessary. Human rights and moral imperatives will be addressed.

THSY04: Greater Involvement of People Living with HIV/AIDS (GIPA): Science and Rights

Session type: Symposium
Venue: Session Room 9, Level 100
Moderator: Kevin Moody, Netherlands

People living with HIV and representatives of vulnerable populations such as people who use drugs, sex workers, gay men, aboriginal populations, women, and youth are central to the response to HIV/AIDS. This session will focus on the ethical and human rights imperatives for involvement, and provide evidence that involvement is also required because it ensures a more effective public health response. In short, GIPA is not a luxury or a sign of political correctness, but a right and a necessity.

16:15 THSY0401: What does the science tell us about why involvement is necessary for an effective response?
T. Kerr, Canada

16:27 THSY0402: GIPA in resource poor settings and conflict situations
R. Ngairangbam, India

16:39 THSY0403: South African workplace model: Successes and failures

16:51 THSY0404: We have rights too: Nothing about us without us
D. Palmer, Canada
The Law and Health Initiative

The Law and Health Initiative, a division of the Open Society Institute’s Public Health Program, is dedicated to advancing legal and human rights-based approaches to public health worldwide. Law and Health supports legal assistance, litigation, and law reform efforts on a range of health issues, including HIV/AIDS, harm reduction, palliative care, Roma health, and sexual health. Through partnerships with both public health and human rights organizations, the initiative seeks to build a broad movement for law-based approaches to health and for the human rights of socially marginalized groups.

More information about the Law and Health Initiative can be found at www.soros.org/initiatives/health/focus/law.
